Question #: 212

Topic #: 1

[All Professional Cloud Security Engineer Questions]

Your company is moving to Google Cloud. You plan to sync your users first by using Google Cloud Directory Sync (GCDS). Some employees have already created Google Cloud accounts by using their company email addresses that were created outside of GCDS. You must create your users on Cloud Identity.

What should you do?

   A. Configure GCDS and use GCDS search rules to sync these users.

   B. Use the transfer tool to migrate unmanaged users.

   C. Write a custom script to identify existing Google Cloud users and call the Admin SDK: Directory API to transfer their account.

   D. Configure GCDS and use GCDS exclusion rules to ensure users are not suspended.

Selected Answer: C

Using the Directory API, you can programmatically manage user accounts, which includes creating new ones. This would let you create users in Cloud Identity and handle ones that already have accounts.
